BIOGRAPHY

Philippe François started writing songs when he was 16, from the time he discovered Neil Young, Bob Dylan, Nick Drake, Incredible String Band and other Anglo-Saxon lyricists of the 60's and 70's. His Trust Fund was originally founded as a three piece in 2014 with Menno and Mattias. A time of experimenting ensued, testing out different angles and genres, which even lead to writing a new soundtrack to Parajanov's 'The Color of Pomegranates' and a monthly collaboration with famed Antwerp musicians such as Eric Thielemans, Laurens Dierickx and Alban Sarens. In 2016 Sara and Eva joined His Trust Fund adding harmonies and a rhythmic backbone. In 2017 the band toured twice through the UK, learning the trade of being a musician on the road and recorded at Studio Ledeborg with Peter Desmedt what would become a first EP.

In september 2018 His Trust Fund released their self-titled EP. This lead to a number of enchanting comparisons with the likes of Leonard Cohen, Jeff Buckley, Timber Timbre and Phosphorescent and shows at larger venues such DEStudio, Het Bos, Cactus,...

His Trust Fund sometimes enjoys doing the support of The Bony King Of Nowhere.

His Trust Fund, the project of songwriter Philippe François, meanders between country à la Phosphorescent and film noir à la Timber Timbre en Flying Horseman. Songs straight from the heart, on a soft bed of sweet female voices, a tapestry of delicately woven guitar picking and a striking rhythmical back bone of double bass and percussion.
